February 27, 2013

Nauset Construction has completed a new addition and renovation of the Heath School, a K-8 facility located in the Chestnut Hill neighborhood of Brookline.

The $6.5 million project was completed on time and within budget with the school fully operational during most of the construction.

Both the LEED-standard addition and the renovations were designed by Boston-based architects Miller Dyer

Spears Inc., a firm that has designed projects for many of the area's academic institutions, including Harvard, Brandeis, and Emerson College.

The addition is a combination of one and-two story wings that house five new classrooms, a science lab, and a multi-purpose room which is outfitted with athletic flooring. The renovations involved the replacement and expansion of the existing kitchen and cafeteria dining space. The library was also
